Then with a shock we look at the situation we have created and find that we are now living in the house we have built. If we had realized that we would have done it differently. Think of yourself as the carpenter. Think about your house. Each day you hammer a nail, place a board, or erect a wall.

The Carpenter's House

Both the house built on sand and the one built on rock are bound to suffer storms. Something terrible—some kind of failure or disaster—is going to strike both of them. In the face of that storm, the house built on sand will collapse, and the house built on rock will endure.
